ABSTRACT

Title : Women’s Correctional Institution Class II A Malang
Student : Intan Primadewati
NRP : 3206.100.010
Period : Even Semester 2009 - 2010
Mentor : Ir. Andy Mappajaya, MT

Women’s Correctional Institution is a government-owned buildings associated with the provision of the place of punishment for female prisoners over the age of 18 years or married with a capacity of 350 people.

Women’s Correctional Institution Class II A Malang is designed to replace the Women’s Correctional Institution building that already exists. This is related to existing problems, namely excessive occupant capacity of prisons, and so we need a new residential facility. In addition, the ISO system which began to be applied in this prison, should be supported with the addition of new facilities.

In accordance with the concept of the correctional institution, it used the design concept that refers to the process of changes in inmate behavior that can be accepted back by society. In its design, planned the building with a lot of mass according to the required activities.

Design theme is Metamorphosis with the issue of space design. Metamorphosis in terms of form and character of the space is expected to change the behavior of inmates to be better. Metamorphosis happens is complete metamorphosis, where the characters differ from the previous building.