Haemodialysis Centre are still rare in Indonesia, especially in Malang. Though many people who require haemodialysis treatment for improving their life quality. Therefore, a haemodialysis centre is required to meet the needs of health facilities, especially for haemodialysis treatment. Malang was chosen as the location due the increasing of the amount of patients who need that treatment each year.

The design aims to create a different haemodialysis centre from the hospital atmosphere in general, so that it can stimulate the patient to see that their life still have a role and their families could help patients to improve the spirit of his life.

Keyword: hemodialysis centers, family, kinship